Hagop -

I hate to disappoint you, but I long ago made plans with some research associates near Nashville to work on my book project next week. There is no way I can cancel these plans to return to Portsmouth for the new committee's meeting.

Why such short notice, and why during intersession? Quite frankly, the survey results I compiled and distributed included almost every word of the collected responses. If the new committee wishes to know the feelings of the campus six months ago, have them read the report. I really don't have anything to add.
