A Birthday Celebration

Have you been searching for a reason to grow a beard and wear funny clothes? Do you wish to continue wearing makeup for the next few months? If so, join the in-crowd and celebrate Portsmouth's 175th Birthday!

Since 1815, the City of Portsmouth has stood on the banks of the Ohio as a tribute to the strong-willed and diligent people who settled this beautiful land of rolling hills and flowing rivers. Now, it's time to honor that heritage and Shawnee State's role in the history and future of our great city.

And the easiest and most enjoyable way is to join either the "Brothers of the Brush" or the "Celebration Belles." Although the actual celebration runs from August 20 until September 3, plenty of activities will take place prior to that date. We'll have dress-up days, and promenades, and Kangaroo Courts, and tug-of-war contests.

Two recent mayoral proclamations explained the goals of the Brothers of the Brush and the Celebration Belles. The Brothers' proclamation stated in part "all males of the age when shaving is feasible, shall refrain from shaving from now until the end of our glorious celebration week, September 3, 1990. The worthy men shall henceforth be known as the Brothers of the Brush and receive full and official recognition by town and celebration officials as citizens of the greatest honor."

The Celebration Belles' proclamation said "in memory of their pioneer great-grandmothers of yore, any and all members of the female sex working or residing in the confines of our city and a goodly portion of those in the rural area are requested, that from this date until they join the Belles, to restrain from appearing in public while wearing lipstick, rouge, eyeshadow, foundation, cream, powder, mascara, nail polish, tinted or bleached hairy halos, perfume or jewelry." Membership into the Belles would allow women to use the previous blandishments.

And if you are caught violating either of these proclamations, beware. Ye Keystone Kops, both in uniform and in hiding, will be watching. Violators will be taken before the Kangaroo Court. Sound like fun? Of course it does, so start your own chapter of the Celebration Belles or Brothers of the Brush, by contacting A.L. Addington, general chairman, or pick up packets at WNXT or the Ramada Inn. Membership into either of the groups is $2.00.

“It's kind of fun to do the impossible.”

— Walt Disney

Campus Micro Users Meet

by Connie Salyers

A small group of Shawnee State microcomputer users are organizing a campus micro users group open to interested faculty, staff, and students. An organizational meeting was held on Thursday, April 26 at noon in the Board Room. Gary Stottlemyer introduced a proposed list of goals, and those in attendance agreed to promote personal computer information and resources among the entire Shawnee State community.

Other goals of the group include investigating the possibility of establishing a local bulletin board, creating a library of public domain and shareware software, developing an informal network of "experts" who can advise on specific applications and form special interest groups who have need of information, and resource sharing relating to particular hardware and software environments.

Another point of discussion was the possibility of organizing demonstrations of new products and current trends. Gene Beckett volunteered to set up a demonstration of the new Macintosh IIx. The tentative date for this demonstration is Thursday, May 31. The demonstration will be open to all interested parties.

For more information, please call Connie at x462.

Library/Media Services

Miami Collection and Approval Plan

Selection of the Miami Collection has been completed. More than 45,000 books have been examined and directed to either Goodwill or cataloging. Thanks to the faculty, staff, and student employees whose hard work allowed this massive project to be completed so rapidly.

Such effort is now needed for the Approval Plan. Since early January of this year, Coutts Library Services, Inc. has been sending us bi-weekly shipments of books for our perusal. This week the shipment will include 27 boxes and cover a wide variety of subjects. In addition, we receive forms describing books. If you would like to see the book itself, we send Coutts the cards and they send the book. All books are sent on approval—i.e., we don't own them until we tell Coutts that we intend to keep them. We have $4,000 to spend this calendar year and have only spent 8.48 percent of that amount.

The books are on display at the Library Annex (the WIOI building) for two-week periods. At this point, selectors are determined by the deans/chairs of the various departments. Books are replaced on alternated Friday afternoons, during which the Library Annex is closed for two or three hours.

The profile is determined by the information we sent Coutts last fall quarter, the books we pick (and return), comments I give during our weekly phone calls, and specific requests from faculty. If you feel that certain desired subjects are not represented, please contact your Library liaison. The profile can be altered at a week's notice.

Library liaisons for the various departments are:

Allied Health: Tess Midkiff
Business: Connie Salyers
CORE: Lou Straziuso
Education: Mary Cummings
Engineering Technologies: Rob Dolan
Arts/Humanities: Lou Straziuso
Math/Science: Gary Stottlemeyer
Social Science: Connie Salyers

Please come by and look at the books. The more you look, the better the profile.

We're Throwing a Party

To honor the distinguished service of the many part-time faculty, staff, and volunteers at Shawnee State University, service pins will be presented by President Clive Veri at a reception in the Allied Health and Nursing lobby at 4:30 p.m. on Monday, May 21. The reception is open to the entire university community, so please attend and honor your colleagues.

Part-time faculty, staff, and volunteers will be presented pins based upon the following considerations:

Part-time staff: Five years of service (regardless of number of hours worked)

Part-time faculty: Five years of service (two quarters = one year; must be continuous, consecutive years)

Volunteers: Five years of service (actual work at Shawnee State, regardless of number of hours worked)

Refreshments will be served.
